Top Vote Getter, Best Dentist, Bethesda Magazine, 2015

Dr. Jason A. Cohen's practice of general, cosmetic and implant dentistry stays current through his commitment to continuing education in the newest techniques and materials. He also invests in the latest equipment, including digital radiography and photography.

In addition to Dr. Cohen's general dental practice, which includes a comprehensive dental hygiene program and oral cancer exams, patients come to him for bonded fillings, porcelain crowns and veneers, teeth whitening and Invisalign clear braces.

"I make sure to spend a lot of time getting to know each patient," says Dr. Cohen. "We make sure everyone feels comfortable in our office. That's a priority."

D.C. patient Harvey Borkin is so enthusiastic about Dr. Cohen he says he would buy stock in him if he could. "Jason is a real find. He has the latest skills, gives excellent advice and has the bedside manner any patient hopes for in their dentist."

Borkin was especially impressed by requests for feedback following each visit. "The staff is warm and friendly," he says. "When you arrive, fear goes out the window."

"I love everything about both the art and the science of practicing dentistry," Cohen says, "but the ultimate mission of my practice is to provide dental treatment with the professional care, skill and judgment that we expect for ourselves and our family members."

A Montgomery County native, Cohen went from Churchill High School to the University of Michigan. He graduated from the University of Maryland Dental School, then completed a general practice residency at the Baltimore Veterans Administration Hospital.

Dr. Cohen is a member of numerous dental organizations, including the Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry, the American Dental Association and the Academy of General Dentistry.
